LADIES IN PROPERTY ANNOUNCE FOURTH NETWORKING EVENT

The Ladies in Property Suffolk (LiPS) group have announced a fourth networking event to be held this October.

The LiPS group was set up by Jacqueline Cumiskey to provide a networking opportunity where ladies can form strategic business relationships and friendships.

There have been three events organised since the inaugural event in June 2015, with each event attended by over 60 women. The fourth event will be held on the Tuesday 25th October in Ipswich.

Anyone working across roles in Land, Property, Construction and Facilities Management is welcome to attend the event, which will be held at the Ipswich and Suffolk Club at Archdeacon's House, from 5.30pm to 7.30pm.

The evening offers the chance to hear from some inspirational speakers, opportunities to network and tour this building rarely open to the general public.

There will be speeches from three inspirational speakers, including John Norman, Chairman of the Ipswich Society, Amy Rushton of Suffolk County Council Heritage Lottery Fund, and Debra Woodbridge, Director of Harnessing Happiness

Organiser Jac Cumiskey said, "We were thrilled to be organising our fourth event. We set up the group because we wanted to organise a networking opportunity where ladies in the industry can gather together, learn from each other and forge new relationships. To have got to the stage where the events are so popular and we are organising number four is hugely rewarding.

"We're absolutely delighted that it's fulfilling the function that we intended it for and we do hope that ladies who have been before, and also ladies who are new, will come along and enjoy the evening with us."

The role of the LiPS group is to provide regular networking events, and to promote roles in the industry to young female students, supporting the national campaign #notjustforboys

The event is free to attend and is being sponsored by Concertus Design and Property Consultants and Prominent PR.
